Democrats are Confident 73rd Congress Will Carry Out President's Program

By Sam Bledsoe.
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Washington, Jan. 3.—(AP)—In a joint session dominated by the physical presence of President Roosevelt, come to bid them to journey with him on the path that he has marked out for recovery, Congress today sped through its opening formalities.

It cleared the way for the reception of his budget recommendations tomorrow, after which it will wade into the legislative duties of the session.

If the warm welcome given the president by the legislators was any criterion, he will have as little trouble with this session as with the emergency gathering he called last spring.

Democratic leaders were confidently predicting that Congress would do what the president wanted it to do and go quietly home in May.

Budget Message.

The budget message, however, may give the Republicans a point to rally opposition.

Shouts, lusty and long, rose from both sides of the House chamber when the president entered on the arm of his tall son, James, to address the joint session.

Members of his cabinet walked in just ahead, blinking in the glare of kleig lights. In the galleries sat Mrs. Roosevelt and other members of the president's family; near them were diplomats and other celebrities—and some well known persons waited outside in the corridors, unable to obtain entrance.

Democrats who commented naturally were laudatory. The Republicans were somewhat chary of interpretation, but Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, said: "It was the finest repeal of the constitution I've ever heard."

He was referring to Mr. Roosevelt's declararion near the conclusion of his address that the "impulse of the common purpose declares a union" between the executive and legislative branches of the government.

Representative Snell, (R., N. Y.), the minority leader, criticized the president for failing to take the people into his confidence by telling them "where we are going from here."

The appearance of a president at the capitol brought huge additions to the sizeable crowds that always gather to witness the pageantry of an opening day. Capitol guards and policemen attempting to shepherd the spectators had an unusually hard workout. Thirty minutes before Mr. Roosevelt left the capitol, passage through the corridors about the House chamber was almost impossible because of the jam.

Promptly at noon, the ruddy faced vice president, John N. Garner, of Texas, opened the Senate session with a lusty whack of his gavel. At the same moment Speaker Rainey was pounding his gavel on the House side.

Three new senators, Ernest W. Gibson, of Vermont; Carl A. Hatch, of New Mexico, and Joseph C. O'Mahoney, of Wyoming, took the oath immediately after that body convened. But the House waited until after the president's address to swear in its freshmen.

Two candidates who claim the seat from the Sixth Louisiana Congressional District were asked to stand aside. They were Mrs. Bolivar Kemp, widow of the late representative, and J. Y. Sanders, Jr. The contest was referred to an elections committee.

Roll calls were taken in both

140 MEN ARE TRAPPED IN COAL SHAFT

Fire And Smoke Keep Rescue Crew Out Of Mine

Duchcov (Dux), Czechoslovakia, Jan. 4.—(Thursday)—(AP)—Fire started early today in the "Nelson III" coal mine where a fearful explosion yesterday trapped 140 miners in the workings.

One hundred and twenty men still in the mine faced certain death, relief experts feared, if they had not already been killed by poisonous gases.

The flames started shortly after midnight, almost seven hours after rescue crews began frantic efforts to reach the imprisoned men.

Recover Bodies

Sixteen bodies have been recovered, and four exhausted and stupefied survivors climbed 1,000 feet to the surface before smoke and flames issuing from the doomed galleries forced a halt to rescue efforts. Until the fire is smothered there will be no further chance to proceed.

The toll of death, including the bodies recovered before the fire, was almost certain to be 136. Among the bodies recovered was that of a washerwoman employed in the shafthead.

The four miners who escaped by climbing to the surface were too stupefied from the effects of gas and by exhaustion to talk.

Ten members of rescue parties, overcome by gas and smoke, were taken to hospitals.

Fire companies, gendarmes and citizens from the whole countryside gathered at the scene, but the wreckage and the darkness, combined with danger of gases from the fire, slowed all operations.

Praha, Czechoslovakia, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The minister of the interior and the minister of public works hastened to Duchcov tonight, scene of the fatal coal mine explosion. Lack of telephone facilities made it improbable any further details of the tragedy would reach here before daylight.

WILLIAM TAYLOR MURDER MYSTERY AGAIN REVIVED

Montgomery, Ala., Family Is Threatened With Torture Police Learn

Los Angeles, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The unsolved murder of William Desmond Taylor, movie director, twelve years ago, was called to the attention of detectives again today in a report that a Montgomery, Ala., woman and her children had been threatened with torture and death unless she told what she knew about the case.

Mindful of the scores of barren clues developed in the film colony mystery, however, Chief of Detectives Joe Taylor, said "it looks like another one of those things."

Chief Taylor said a telegram received from Detective Chief Paul Rappord of Montgomery asked a search of records to ascertain whether the name of Martha Pace ever figured in the murder inquiry. The detective said he was informed a Mrs. C. W. Anderson of Montgomery, who said her name was Martha Pace at the time of the film director's death, told of receiving written threats, signed "the gang," but could not explain them.

She was quoted as saying she did not know Director Taylor and was living several hundred miles from Los Angeles when he was killed.

No officer who worked on the case remembered the name of Martha Pace or Mrs. Anderson.

LAGUARDIA SEEKS POWER TO SLASH CITY SALARIES

Seeks Right To Cut Wages, Shift Departments And Eliminate Burdens

By Francis A. Jamieson
Associated Press Staff Writer

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The city's new fusion administration, brushing aside stubborn opposition, today called on the legislature to give Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia dictatorial powers to slash municipal expenditures.

Disregarding a reminder that to cut salaries would break his campaign pledges, La Guardia led the fight to push through the board of estimate a resolution asking that the legislature grant him power to make extraordinary reductions so the city's budget can be balanced.

"I said that if the city finances would permit there would be no salary reductions," said the mayor to former Deputy Comptroller Frank J. Prial, who made a surprise plea that action on the resolution be deferred.

The resolution rushed to the head of the calendar, calls on the legislature to give the mayor powers almost unprecedented in American municipal government—the right to cut salaries, eliminate departments and transfer bureaus from one department to another.

The two remaining Democrats—Samuel Levy, Manhattan borough president and a Tammanyite, and James J. Lyons, Bronx borough president who was elected on the ticket headed by Joseph V. McKee—obtained the unexpected support of George U. Harvey, Republican-Fusion borough president of Queens, in their fight against the resolution.

CHINESE UNREST IS PROVOKED BY THREATS OF WAR

Nanking Government Seeks To Put Down Rebellious Junta

Threats of war in three widely-separated parts of China provoked new unrest Wednesday in the strife-wracked land.

In the southeastern maritime province of Fukien the National government at Nanking, seeking to put down a rebellious junta, prepared for a sea attack and sent troops into battle with the insurgent forces.

Nationals of foreign governments were again warned to evacuate danger zones, but many, including a number of Americans, were determined to remain at their stations.

Rebels also figured in attempts to penetrate Peping. Remnants of General Liu Kuei-Tang's irregular army threatened Peiping, but were repulsed by government forces. In the path of the rebels' retreat was an American school at Tungchow.

Reliable Chinese reports said the Japanese, who last year conquered Jehol province, were penetrating Chahar province due west of Jehol and in extreme northern China, and were establishing air bases.

Peiping, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Disquieting apprehensions were felt today for the safety of students and teachers in an American school at Cungchow, in the path of a pillaging rebel army as it retreated after an unsuccessful thrust at Peiping.

Members of the American diplomatic corps here were concerned over the possible danger to the institution during the depredations of the insurgents—2,000 ragged irregulars under General Liu Kueitang.

Government forces repulsed the invaders from Chahar province, but travel in this section was made dangerous and traffic into Peiping was disrupted as the outlaws terrorized the countryside.

They robbed Cuthbert Shelley, engineer of the British legation, just outside this former Chinese capital.

Japanese airplanes flew over Peiping, ready to attack Liu's men should they enter the north China demilitarized zone.

A continuing Japanese penetration of Chahar province, in northern China, with a view to obtaining a firm hold on inner Mongolia was reported in reliable Chinese dispatches.

After occupying Hsifenchai City last month, despite Japanese denials of such a drive, Nipponese forces were said in the reports to have completed modern airdromes in nearby Malanyu and Hataying.

TWO MONKEYS AND BEAR DECIDE TO HAVE SOME FUN

One Man Goes To The Doctor And Several Visit The Cleaners

Chicago, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Two monkeys and a bear had more fun today. Somebody with a sense of humor turned them loose in the heart of the egg district of Chicago, and when recess was over one man was on his way to the doctor's and several policemen and innocent bystanders were on their way to the cleaner's.

Their vaudeville managers had gone into a photographer's office to arrange a sitting when the practical joker opened the door of their truck.

It was a cold day, and naturally no self-respecting bear and monkeys would sit still and freeze. The bear sniffed, piled out of the car and shambled straight into a saloon. Other patrons picked the nearest exit.

The monkeys sauntered over to a truck loaded with eggs and began shelling a few.

A. P. Crosbie, indignant produce merchant, remonstrated with a loaded crate. The monks dodged and laid down a barrage of eggs. They quickly mustered the technique of feeding themselves with the left hand while the right kept omelet flying. Sometimes, when the enemy was in retreat, the monkeys had time for an egg shampoo.

A mounted policeman galloped to attack, but the bear had become bored with the barroom and chased the policeman.

By the time reinforcements arrived the monkeys, surfeited with eggs, had strolled into a produce company office and entered an elevator. John Mehorezyk, the operator, impolitely grabbed their ropes. One monkey bit Mr. Mehorezyk's right leg. The other bit his left leg. Mr. Mehorzyk went to the doctor's while the monkeys walked up stairs to the fish and meat storage department.

Recess ended when Jack and Myrtle Jackson, the vaudevillians from Australia, discovered the escape and called the three animals back.

SCHOOL LEGISLATION

Springfield, Ill., Jan 3.—(AP)—Immediate special session help for public schools was requested today by Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill of Downers Grove and Miss Josephine Perry of Chicago, republican members of the house, but Governor Horner insisted that liquor control should be provided first.

Mrs. O'Neill said that the Villa Grove school in her district has been forced to close and that many others throughout the state are in financial difficulties.

"It is a shame," she said, "that liquor legislation should endanger the continuation of our schools."

Illinois State Senators Ask Roosevelt to Take A Hand In Breaking Deadlock

By William E. Walton,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 3.—(AP)—While the Democrats made repeated attempts to compromise on liquor control, a group of Republican senators today asked President Roosevelt to take a hand in breaking the special session deadlock.

A second conference between Governor Horner and the Cook county Democrats was held this evening. They failed to agree in a lengthy session during the day and administration leaders pushed Senate action on the bill, seemingly confident of eventually passing the House compromise bill for a state commission. Progress at conciliation was evident.

Telegraph President.

Seven Republicans telegraphed the president that the Nash-Kelly organization in Chicago caused the deadlock by insisting "upon the open saloon, unrestricted except as to purely local political control."

Mr. Roosevelt was asked for "some direct expression or other action" to combat the saloon as the Republican group called attention to party platforms.

The Senate was in session less than an hour all day, a large part of the time being consumed by the conference the governor called at his office with the Democratic senators from Chicago who have followed Mayor Edward J. Kelly in the party split over home rule.

At the conference neither side yielded. The Cook county Democrats still insisted that the proposed state commission should have little power to interfere with liquor regulation from the Chicago city hall. Observers thought, however, that the governor was getting the upper hand.

Louis O. Williams, Clinton Democrat who has acted as administration floor leader in the liquor fight, introduced a group of about 25 technical amendments at the governor's request. The plan apparently was to try to drive ahead in spite of the deadlock.

The telegram to Mr. Roosevelt was signed by Roy C. Woods of Chicago, Arnold T. Benson of Batavia, Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, Thomas P. Gunning of Princeton, Ray E. Paddock of Round Lake, Simon Lantz of Congerville and Harry G. Wright of De Kalb. Its text follows:

"The Illinois legislature is hopelessly deadlocked over the passage of a liquor control law. The Cook county Democratic members of the Senate, under the leadership of the Nash-Kelly organization, insist upon the open saloon, unrestricted except as to purely local political control. This statement can be immediately verified by your staff.

"Governor Horner and Democrats of the rest of the state, in association with the Republican minority members of the legislature, are insisting upon state control of the liquor traffic and abolition of the saloon, as promised in the national platforms of both major political parties and as advocated by you as president of the United States.

"The impasse is so serious that we are convinced that the matter should be called to your attention.

"We believe that some direct expression or other action from you at this time is necessary and fully justified by existing circumstances to safeguard the people of Illinois and other states from the saloon and other evils of a practically uncontrolled liquor traffic.

"We are now in session and are hopeful that you will help us at this time to carry out your wishes and ours on this subject without delay."

COURT STAYS EXECUTION OF WALTER REPPIN

18 Year Old Youth Faced Death In Gas Chamber

Denver, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Walter Reppin, 18, white-faced Newark, N. J., youth who was sentenced to breathe death this week in Colorado penitentiary's new lethal gas chamber for the murder of a taxi driver, tonight was cheered by the Colorado supreme court's intervention in his case and the chance of a new trial.

The court today ordered warden Roy Best of the state prison at Canon City, where Reppin is held in a death cell, to stay the execution until further notice by the court.

Reppin was scheduled to die the week ending January 6 for the murder of Vincent Regan at Colorado Springs last August.

The court granted a motion to review Reppin's case, presented today by David Rosner and Philip Hornbein of Denver, voluntary attorneys for the youth.

Gov. E. C. Johnson repeated his statement that he would not interfere with the sentence given Reppin after making public a letter he received from Mrs. Rose L. Gegan of Colorado Springs, mother of Reppin's victim.

The letter asked death for Reppin "not in a spirit of revenge but in the name of justice."

Mrs. Regan charged that Reppin "carefully planned this murder and was armed with two guns when he lured our son out on a fake call, stole his cab, shot him and left him to die on a lonely road at night."

WOMAN CLAIMS PASTOR FIRED FATAL SHOTS

Witness Tells How Prayer Meeting Interrupted

By J. C. Stark
Associated Press Staff Writer

Piggott, Ark., Jan. 3.—(AP)—How a woman's afternoon prayer meeting at the Jonesboro Baptist Tabernacle last October 10 was broken up by gunfire in which J. W. MacMurdo, janitor, was slain by the Rev. Dale S. Crowley was described by Mrs. Clara Coleman today in Crowley's trial for murder.

A member of the Joe Jeffers faction which carried on a fight with the Crowley group for control of the tabernacle, Mrs. Coleman, the first of the state's eye-witnesses to take stand, testified that she saw Crowley fire another shot in Macmurdo's body as the latter lay wounded on the floor.

Crowley, 34, is pleading self defense in the slaying of the aged janitor.

A group of about fifteen women were gathered at the tabernacle and were singing and praying on the rostrum when she first heard voices in the rear of the building, then two shots followed by "a volley of shots," Mrs. Coleman said.

GOVERNMENT OF RUMANIA QUITS AFTER 5 DAYS

George Tatarescu Is Named To Form New Cabinet

Bucharest, Rumania, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The government of Constantine Angelescu resigned today after a career of less than five days.

Although the administration was frankly described as temporary when King Carol named the former minister of education to succeed the assassinated Premier Ion G. Duca, complications developed even sooner than many political circles expected.

The resigning minister of commerce, George Taterescu, was immediately commissioned by the monarch to form a new cabinet. He took the oath of office.

Tatarescu was expected to pursue a vigorous campaign against the anti-semitic and Nazi iron guard, a member of which killed the former premier on Dec. 29.

The veteran Foreign Minister Nicholas Titulescu on Jan. 1 proffered what was variously described as a resignation and a notification that he no longer considered himself a cabinet member.

He asserted that he was through with a government that "so signally failed to take sufficiently energetic measures against a movement (the iron guard)" which "imperilled" the nation.

After a two-hour conference with Carol, the prime minister handed in a blanket resignation of the whole cabinet.

Tomorrow Tatarescu is expected to be elected the new chief of the Liberal party, of which Duca was a leader.

HOUSE PLANS TO TAKE UP LIQUOR MEASURE TODAY

Tax Bill Will Bring $470,000,000 In Revenue, Claim

By Cecil B. Dickson
Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The new liquor tax bill designed to bring in $470,000,000 in revenue at rates low enough to discourage bootlegging in wet states will be brought up tomorrow in the house for speedy action.

Completing the measure today, the ways and means committee formally reported it to the house with the statement that it believed the rates "will return the maximum amount of revenue without incurring the dangers of perpetuating illegal liquor traffic."

Made First Order

The bill was made the first order of legislative business by Representative Byrns of Tennessee, Democratic leader, who told the house:

"We are losing hundreds of thousands of dollars every day the liquor tax action is delayed. Let's act on what's before us. Let's expedite the liquor measure."

The $470,000,000 estimate does not include the $75,000,000 to $100,000,000 experts of the ways and means committee believe will be collected in imports duties at present tariff rates.

The estimate includes $300,000,000 expected from the $2 a gallon levy on an estimated consumption of 150,000,000 gallons of distilled spirits in the first post repeal year, $10,000,000 from wine levies, and $160,000,000 from the $5 a barrel rate placed on beer.

The measure was reported by a vote of 14 Democrats voting "aye" to nine Republicans voting "present." It increases the present tax of $1.10 a gallon on spirits by 90 cents, and provides that where the present tax has been paid the increase also must be paid.

Chairman Doughton (D. N. C.) of the ways and means committee said the measure, being a privileged matter before the house, would be brought up under general rules with a view to seeking a vote Friday.

Debate is not to be limited, but an effort is to be made by Doughton to get an agreement to restrict argument to a few hours.

REVISION OF ARM FIGURES SOUGHT BY B. MUSSOLINI

Confers With British Foreign Secretary Two Hours on New Proposition

By John Lloyd
Associated Press Foreign Staff

Rome, Jan. 3.—(AP)—A revision of arms figures calculated to strike a satisfactory balance among national armaments, rather than a wholesale slash previously favored by Italy, was said authoritatively today to have been suggested by Premier Mussolini to Sir John Simon, the British foreign secretary.

The two statesmen conferred for more than two hours seeking a way of solving the present Franco-German deadlock on disarmament and exchanged ideas regarding the Italian premier's demand for league of nations reforms.

An official communique issued tonight said they had a "cordial colloquy" and will meet again tomorrow morning.

Well-informed circles believed that Il Duce has practically abandoned hope in the present situation of winning France over to a thesis of an immediate and radical cut in arms.

Well-informed circles believed that Il Duce has practically abandoned hope in the present situation of winning France over to a thersis of an immediate and radical cut in arms.

Revision of armament distribution, according to the Italian idea, would take the shape of German rearmament and hence the question, instead of being one of disarmament, would become one of rearming.

Sir John, who previously discussed like matters in Paris and London, declined to discuss his conference with Mussolini. Tonight the Briton was the guest of Mussolini at an official banquet.

Regarding the suggested reform of the league, it was considered certain that the Italian premier in outlining his views to Sir John insisted that the Geneva institution should be divorced from the Versailles treaty which, he maintains, was drafted in a spirit of vengeance.

Mussolini also was believed to have suggested depriving the league of its power to invoke military sanctions and the setting up of a higher hierarchy of the big powers within it along the lines of the four-power European peace pact signed last summer by Germany, Italy, Great Britain and France.

LAWYER INDICTED

Houston, Tex., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Charles E. Heidingsfelder, Sr., Houston attorney who reported to police that he was robbed on Christmas day of $34,500 belonging to a client, was indicted today by the Harris county grand jury on three counts in connection with loss of the money.

The 60-year-old lawyer's trial was set for next Wednesday. He was released under $15,000 bail.

The money belonged to Mrs. Adele Pipkin of New York and was part of a recent divorce settlement from her former husband, Jean Pipkin, cattleman of Beaumont, Tex.

President Roosevelt Tells Congress Nation Definitely Is in Process of Recovery

By Francis M. Stephenson
Associated Press Staff Writer

Washington, Jan. 3.—(AP)—In a vigorously worded, personally delivered message, President Roosevelt today pointed an enthusiastic congress toward his conception of a permanent recovery on a new basis.

The president thrust deeply toward some of the recently disclosed practices of big business in the banking and speculative fields.

He told the joint session of congress that the nation is "definitely in the process of recovery, and proposed a permanency of the principles of his monetary, agriculture and industrial programs.

New Fields

For new fields of immediate effort he asked "stringent preventitive or regulatory measures in the nation's business affairs and a governmental and public war against organized crime.

"I am speaking," said the president in raised voice, "of those individuals who have evaded the spirit and purpose of our tax laws, of those high officials of banks or corporations who have grown rich at the expense of their stockholders or of the public, of those reckless speculators with their own or other people's money whose operations have injured the values of the farmer's crops and the savings of the poor.

"In the other category, crimes of organized banditry, cold blooded shooting, lynching and kidnaping have threatened our security.

"These violations of ethics and these violations of law call on the strong arm of government for their immediate suppression; they call also on the country for an aroused public opinion."

The presidential message, delivered amid frequent applause and received with cheers, bore no specific legislative recommendations.

The president left no doubt that he wanted the emergency recovery program continued with necessary modifications, and announced he would renew direct federal relief pending the restoration of private employment.

"We have ploughed the furrow," he said, "and planted the good seed; the hard beginning is over. If we would reach the full harvest we must cultivate the soil where this good seed is sprouting and the plant is reaching up to mature growth."

Briefly discussing his managed currency program, Mr. Roosevelt said it had the purpose of strengthening the financial structure "and of arriving eventually at a medium of exchange which will have over the years less variable purchasing and debt paying power for our people."

Internal difficulties of some foreign nations, he added, made the question of stabilization of currencies in the foreign exchange on a permanent and world-wide basis a long way off.

He said there had been "great strides" under the national industrial recovery act and proposed that this be made a permanent thing "under the supervision but not the arbitrary dictation of government itself."

"Actual experience with the operation of the agricultural adjustment act," he said, "leads to my belief that thus far the experiment of seeking a balance between production and consumption is succeeding and has made progress entirely in line with reasonable expectations towards the restoration of farm prices to parity."

He looked ahead to the day when the Tennessee Valley development could be extended to a national plan.

The president was not so enthusiastic about the situation in world af-

BUSINESS WANTS STATE GROUP TO CONTROL LIQUOR

President of Illinois Chamber of Commerce Testifies at Chicago Hearing

Chicago, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Walter Williams, president of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, today said that a survey conducted by the organization's legislative department indicated that Illinois business interests favored a state liquor control commission as sponsored by Governor Henry Horner.

The report said that the liquor problem was a social problem. General in character, and affecting all subdivisions of the state. Seventeen states, the report said, already have adopted liquor control regulations under state control commissions.

"It is contended that absolute home rule does not properly apply to alcoholic liquors," the report said. "It is felt that, in the public interest, some point of appeal is essential in the matter of licensing and handling of licenses. In dispensing and controlling the sale of liquor, and in the interest of justice and obedience to law in doing so.

"The creation of a state liquor control commission granted reasonable regulatory powers is a common sense expedient and would constitute an added item of checks and balances in administration which our governmental system is replete.

"In retail dispensing of liquor, opposition to the return of the so-called old type of saloon is definite. It is not so much a question as to whether liquor is to be drunk standing or sitting or served with or without food, as it is for the open tavern method, welcome to all, and for clean and respectable dispensing and distributing that is above criticism and attack.

"As to patronage and presence of women, if the dispensaries are respectably conducted on the open tavern plan with no obscuring curtains or screens or hiding away places, there appears no valid reason why properly respectable women should be excluded any more than properly respected men."

WILL TRY ALL VIOLATORS OF U. S. DRY LAW

Prohibition Repeal Did Not Release Lawbreakers

Washington, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The administration favors the prosecution of persons charged with having violated national prohibition before repeal.

This position was taken in a brief filed by the justice department in the supreme court today holding that the repeal of prohibition should not release from trial those charged with violating the volstead act or with conspiracy to violate it.

Hundreds of cases are pending in federal courts in which indictments have been returned charging violation of the liquor law, and a large number of cases in which persons have been convicted and sentenced for violating the law are pending in federal appelate courts. Against all of these, the justice department would proceed in the usual course, as though the prohibition law had not been repealed.

"Dead Hand"

It may be good common law, solicitor general Biggs asserted in his brief, for the federal courts to hold that prohibition repeal had the effect of preventing any further proceedings under the Volstead Act, but common law in that respect was "a dead hand."

He urged the supreme court "in the light of general authority and sound reason" to apply what he termed "the salutary, statutory rule of construction" and hold that the repeal of the eighteenth amendment did not have the effect of releasing from all criminal liabilities those persons who violated the national prohibition act or conspired to do so.

The brief was filed in an appeal by the government from a ruling by federal district Judge Hayes in the middle district of North Carolina ordering the release of Byrum Gibson and Claude Chambers charged with violating the volstead act.

One of them had pleaded guilty Judge Hayes held that the two men could not be tried on an indictment charging violation of a law which had been repealed.

The ninth circuit court of appeals ordered the release of a person convicted and under sentence for violating the volstead act when it took the same view. Judge Gibson in the western district of Pennsylvania also held there was no longer any power to punish for past violations of the national prohibition act.

In two other cases, decided since prohibition repeal, Judge Atwell in the northern district of Texas and Judge Baker in the northern district of West Virginia held to the contrary, ruling that penalties provided in the volstead act could be imposed altho the act had been repealed.

Biggs said in the brief that while it was the rule of the common law that if a statute expired or was repealed before final judgment had been rendered the court was deprived of power to proceed with the trial of criminal cases brought under it, the effect of such a rule could be destroyed by a saving clause in the law.

Chief Justice Marshall laid down such a rule, Biggs said, and the justice department takes the position that congress in 1871, to meet the results of the Marshall decision, enacted a general saving clause applicable to all legislation, making it possible to punish in the federal courts offenses committed under federal laws which were repealed.

Uniform Traffic Laws

A retired Major-General in the U. S. Army has suggested that light stands in the form of flowers might be used along our hard roads. He would have these decorative stands emit soft light for the guidance of motorists and serve as loud speakers to disseminate music for their enjoyment. They might also be filled with incense, which would make progress along the highways most pleasant.

All of which might detract the attention of drivers and cause bad accidents. We are not so much interested in decorative novelties for our traffic arteries as we are in uniform traffic laws which would make travel thruout these United States free from the shocks of legal interference and the fear of making mistakes which might well land the motorist in some strange bastile.

On one strip of 250 miles of highway between New York and Washington there are 350 different laws and ordinances in effect at various points to plague the traveler. One crying need in this country is a nationally uniform traffic code which would operate the same in all cities and along all highways, in whatever part of the country.

At present the motorists must enter a strange city with fear and trembling. When he crosses a state line he is liable to be "pulled" for not having a different license. He is subject to varying legal speed limits and to the evils prepared by designing constables who lie in wait for strange drivers. With one code for the entire country, the convenience and pleasure of motor travel would be increased, and tourist business would not be driven away from any locality because of adverse traffic regulations.

Our Army Prepared

The United States Army, small tho it may be, presents a picture of preparedness that may surprise many unacquainted with its accomplishments. During the past six months the army has conditioned and put to work in our forests 300,000 young men, members of the Civilian Conservation corps. The army prepared the camps and furnished the preliminary training. The job was done quietly, but it was a demonstration of what a well-organized army can do.

Experts believe the army is capable of coping with any situation which may arise, whether it be cleaning up sanitary conditions in the canal zone, handling a problem of domestic chaos, or putting a force into the field in time of war. Under the National Defense Act, this country has a much better army organization than it had before the World War.

At present the army is maintaining the communications service in Alaska thru its Signal Corps. It maintains the defense garrisons in our foreign possessions, keeps up the coast defense system in the United States, and works thru corps areas and departments, where officers are allowed a large measure of independence in action. Washington tells the army what to do, but leaves it to the organized units to determine how it shall be done.

There is no question but that such an excellent army organization merits the wholehearted support of the people. The army should have generous appropriations, up-to-date equipment in all branches, and the advantage of every modern improvement in military science.

Subsistence Farming

When the administration set aside $25,000,000 to experiment on subsistence farms, it started something the finish of which is a matter for the seventh son of a seventh son.

None of the New Deal's experiments is more interesting than this one; few of them have more completely unpredictable consequences. The fact that the experiment is beginning to prove enormously popular indicates that we may bump into those consequences a lot sooner than we expect.

The idea is to set up colonies of small homes, each surrounded by a garden sufficient to provide its owner with most of his foodstuffs. Occupants of such homes would hold jobs in industry; some would work in coal mines, some in factories, and so on.

The jobs would give them their income and the gardens would give them their food; if an industrial slump cut their jobs out from under them, they at least could keep on eating regularly until things picked up again.

That's the program. Now it develops thaat the government is being overwhelmed with a regular flood of demands for subsistence farms. The director of the project already has received applications which, if granted, would run the cost of the experiment up to $4,000,000,000. Letters are coming in at the rate of 1,000 a day.

Here is pathetically eloquent testimony to the forgotten man's fear of insecurity, and also to his dislike of ordinary urban life. Furthermore, it is a pretty fair indication that there will be plenty of sentiment in Congress in favor of extending the scope of the whole project.

These applicants are voters; you can depend on it that their congressmen are hearing from them.

We are likely, then, to hear more rather than less of the subsistence farm idea in the future. And it is high time for us to figure out just where such program would lead us if it were expanded greatly.

Would it—as some critics say—establish an American peasantry? Would it depress industrial wages and cut agriculture's markets? Would it solidify the population in such way as to diminish the fluidity of labor to a disastrous extent?

It might do all those things; it might do none of them. It is up to us to find out.

The best way to find out is to try it and see; and that seems to be just what we are going to do—on a larger scale than any of us had expected.

Always Taxed

(Quincy Herald-Whig.)

"It's the first time in my observation that I have seen a reduction in prices, due to lowered taxes," was the comment of a Kansas City oil manager regarding the removal of the half-cent federal tax on gasoline, effective Jan. 1.

Generally, when prices are reduced, it is due to economic causes, such as overproduction. The half-cent cut is made automatically, as one of the "nuisance taxes" that was to be done away with when the government had liquor revenue available. Another is the tax on dividends.

One could hope that gasoline might continue to escape taxes and that law-makers, looking about for revenue, would turn elsewhere than toward the automobile industry. Every state in the union taxes gasoline and there is still a small tax to be paid the federal government.

It has been the policy of our government, once it embarks on a special tax plan, to continue forever. An instance is the tax on tobacco and cigarets. Six cents a package appears an enormous levy for the manufacturer to absorb, leaving as it does little for the retailer and distributor. We are not likely in this generation to hear that the tax on cigarets and tobacco is discontinued or even reduced. Similarly, there is little likelihood that the government or the states will ever omit to tax gasoline.

WILL ROGERS Says:

To the Editor of The Journal-Courier:

Beverly Hills, Calif., Jan. 3.—The big Columbia Stanford football game. Mr. Hoover was there, looked fine, and got a big reception. He was the main old grad from Stanford, I was the main old grad from Columbia. I took a correspondence course from there one time in tenor singing.

Just the make of the skin that covers the ball beat Stanford. If instead of pig skin, the ball had been covered with porcupine hide, (with the quills on), maybe Stanford could have held onto it. But the game was in keeping with everything else that happened in sports, government and economics, the past year. The experts were wrong again.

MARKET PROBLEMS DISCUSSED AT MEETING IN CITY

Morgan county farmers marketed 21.2% of their livestock, or 483 car loads, thru co-operating channels during 1933, according to figures submitted Wednesday at a meeting of District Six of the Illinois Livestock Marketing Association, held in this city. Ray Miller, manager of the association gave the farmers an analysis of the marketing situation in the state, and especially in the sixth district.

Morgan county ranked fifteenth in the state in the amount of stock marketed co-operatively. Sangamon county headed the list with 33% of its livestock thus marketed, or 973 car loads. During the year 1933 the entire state sent to all terminals thru co-operative agencies 27,214 as against 23,846 car loads in 1932.

At the same time during 1933, Mr. Miller pointed out, the farmers of Illinois sent 43% of their hogs direct to packers. In such marketing the packer dictates the grade, weight, price and conditions of sale. On the other hand, when stock is marketed thru co-operative agencies, these four things are arranged by representatives of the farmers.

The following counties and the number of delegates from each show the attendance at the meeting Wednesday Morgan county had 8 representatives, including Chairman E. C. Reynolds, E. E. Hart, C. S. Black, Roy Burrus, Dan Dietrich, R. B. Oxley, Roy VanGundy, R. L. Harney, F. J Scholfield, L. T. Oxley, manager of the county shipping service; Claude Jewsbury and I. E. Parett, farm adviser. Menard county had four delegates, Cass four, Schuyler, two Christian two, Adams four, Scott three, Pike three and Brown six.

fairs but said he regarded the recent Pan-American conference at Montevideo "an outstanding success."

He asserted that fear of war in other parts of the world was preventing progress in peace or trade agreements but reiterated the willingness of this government to cooperate for the reduction of armaments and the lowering of tariffs. He added that the United States "cannot take part in political arrangements in Europe."

Mr. Roosevelt indicated new steps might come soon on the defaulted war debts, saying he would make a report later to congress.

The president also made it definitely known that he would submit a specific recommendation to congress later on the tariff.

The opinion persisted that he would seek authority to negotiate reciprocal tariff agreements.

At the white house Mr. Roosevelt said he probably from time to time also would submit other messages but that there was no fixed schedule for this and he expected most of the legislation to originate in committees and be enacted in close cooperation between the white house and congress.

"Now that we are definitely in the process of recovery," he said, "lines have been rightly drawn between those to whom this recovery means a return to old methods and the number of these people is small and those for whom recovery means a reform of many old methods—a permanent readjustment of many of our ways of thinking and therefore of many of our social and economic arrangements."

GOBLER'S KNOB SCENE OF ANOTHER SKIRMISH

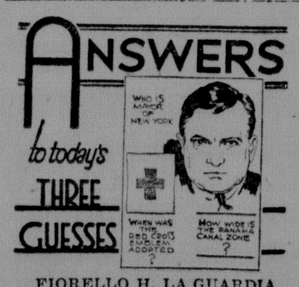

Beardstown, Jan. 3.—John Hardy, 20, is in Schmitt Memorial hospital and Harry Ashcraft is free on bonds of $1,500 as the result of a fight which occurred on "Gobler's Knob" at Tenth and Wall streets.

Ashcraft was arrested by Officer Tom Madine after a complaint had been made before Justice of the Peace Unland that he "beat up" on the Hardy youth.

Hardy has a broken nose, a cut lip, and injuries about the eyes and cheeks as well as forehead as the result of the fight.

It is claimed that Ashcraft attacked Hardy with a stove poker and an iron skillet. The fight is said to have occurred in one of the shacks on "Gobler's Knob."

A STRIKING contrast in Justice, afforded in the Los Angeles court of Judge Harry F. Sewell, that has stirred a buzz of debate in California: Mrs. Retta Munhall, 43, pleaded guilty to stealing $27,100 from her employers over a period of 14 years. Sentence suspended, six years' probation. Next case: John McDaniel, 31, who stole 20 nickels from a public phone box, no previous record of felonies. One to 15 years in San Quentin prison. Each case was decided on its merits, said the judge, adding that coincidences had no place in his court.

Mr. Roosevelt went directly to the speaker's room after arriving at the capitol. Committees had been appointed to go through the form of notifying him that Congress was in session.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, dispensed with the trip through the cold of a cloudy day by calling the White House by telephone and laughingly telling the president to get ready for a great shock—that "Congress was in session."

Members of the cabinet were awaiting Mr. Roosevelt in Speaker Rainey's chambers. He joked with them until a congressional committee filed in to escort him to the House floor.

Introduced by Speaker Rainey, Mr. Roosevelt waited until the applause died away to begin his message on the state of the nation.

The first piece of legislation that will be considered was whipped into shape by the House ways and means committee.

It approved the final draft of the liquor tax bill that is expected to yield over $400,000,000, preparatory to probable House consideration tomorrow.

The Senate plans to bring this bill up immediately after House action.

Close behind the revenue measure is to come a liquor control measure for the District of Columbia.

Then the Senate may take up the proposal to give Mr. Roosevelt power to negotiate reciprocal tariff treaties with other nations without Senate ratification.

Republicans, including Senator McNary, of Oregon, Senate leader, and Senator Couzens, of Michigan, have said they would oppose this.

Today, however, Senator Norris, Republican independent from Nebraska, indicated that he probably would favor the extension of authority.

RECEIVE POETIC GREETINGS FROM D. A. R. OFFICIAL

Miss Katherine Barr, Regent of the Rev. James Caldwell Chapter D. A. R. has received New Year's greetings from the State Regent, Mrs. Mary A. Goodhue, who recently visited the local society. Mrs. Goodhue expressed her hopes and wishes for the Chapter in an original poem: "A New Year Dedication".

New Year Dedication

A little child came to my doorstep one night,
Clad simply in garments of pure, snowy white,
In one hand a casket of jewels held tight.
The other aloft bore a flame.

"Sweet child, who are you?" I questioned him there
"And what of the jewels and flame that you bear?"
He said, with a smile such as angels may wear,
"Why! Little New Year is my name!

"The jewels I bear are the joys of last year,
All the kind words, the smile and the pitying tear,
The thoughts of forgiveness, the love and the cheer
And all the true gifts that men claim.

"I gather these treasures as swiftly I run.
I must know them and grasp them each day one by one,
For I see only forward from dawn till day's done
And the Light and His Love are the same.

"Dear Child, let me go with you", answered I then
"For I, too, have jewels which strong and brave men,
Through courage and principle, pattern and pen,
Have left for their nation's fair fame.

"And I would run with you the rest of the way
And carry the treasures bequeathed to my day
For country beloved and mankind, if I may,
And so let us go—In His Name."

RABBIT BREEDERS GROUP HOLDS MEETING

Members of the Jacksonville Rabbit Breeders association held a miniature show of their stock Tuesday night when the regular meeting was held at the Kendell Seed House, on So. Sandy street. Each member took a rabbit to the meeting, and some fine specimens were shown.

H. F. Winkler, president, and Ed Steinkuehler, secretary of the rabbit breeders' organization in Springfield, were guests at the meeting in addition to several other visitors.

Back Details Smart As The Front

PATTERN 1744

By Anne Adams

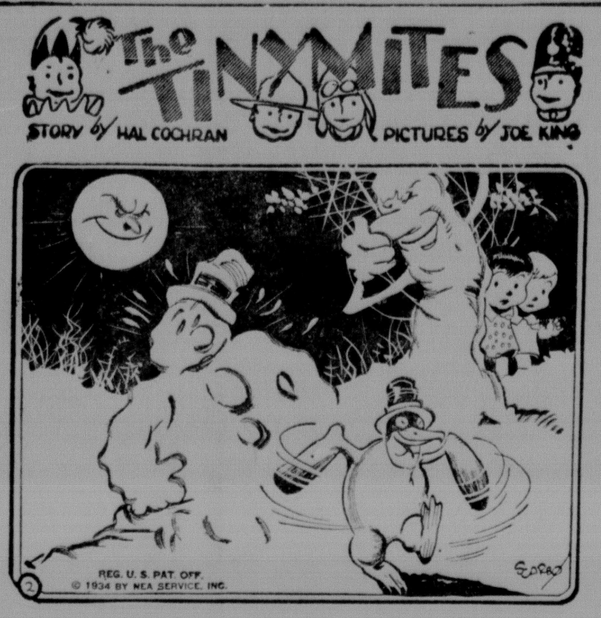

Here is a stunning new frock designed for the woman whose figure is no longer slender, and who must choose her frocks with an eye to disguising bad contours. The flattering collar with soft cowl drape, the deep pointed seaming and pleat in the skirt, and the new sleeves will do wonders. A mossy crepe, with dainty lace vestee, makes excellent fabric medium—satin and faille are equally good. Among the new shades are plum, blackberry and bottle green—while black, brown and navy are always smart and correct.

Pattern 1744 is available in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 takes 4⅛ yards 39 inch fabric and 1-6 yard 5½ inch lace. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

THE CURRENT EDITION OF THE ANNE ADAMS PATTERN BOOK WILL HELP YOU SAVE MONEY. ORDER YOUR COPY TODAY! PRICE OF CATALOG FIFTEEN CENTS. CATALOG AND PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

The snowman cried, "Ho, ho, what fun. I knew I'd make the two girls run. Here's where we have a dandy chase. I hope my legs hold out.

"If they fall off, of course I'll lose the race, but I am going to use all of my strength in running. So will both the girls, no doubt."

"You bet we will," cried Goldy. "Gee, I heard you say that you'd hug me. That doesn't sound so good, because I know you're very cold.

"Why, you would freeze me and, I'll bet, that I soon would be soaking wet." Then in the snow the snowman fell, and o'er and o'er he rolled.

"Ha, ha," laughed Dotty. "Serves you right! That was a very funny sight. Come on, get up and run some more. We still have lots of pep."

"All right," replied the old snowman. "I'll gladly do it, if I can, but I will have to slow down, girls. I'm forced to watch my step."

Then Goldy stopped, and turned around. The snowman, keeling on the ground, looked rather sad, and Goldy said, "Why, what's come over you?

"The friendly smile has left your face. I guess we'd better stop our race. The running's tired you out. Gee, is there something we can do?"

"No, I guess not," came the reply. "Look overhead, girls, in the sky. The sun has just peeked through the clouds. It soon will get real hot.

"No more with you girls can I play, 'cause I will shortly melt away. Ol' Sol is laughing at me, now. I guess I'm on the spot."

The Tinies soon saw he was right. The sun blazed forth with all its might and Dotty cried, "Just look at that. Our friend is melting fast."

Then Scouty said, "Well, goodby, sir. It's tough that this had to occur, but we were having such good times, I knew they couldn't last."

JR. RED CROSS IN GIFT OF BRAILLE BOOKS TO BLIND

About 200 braille books were sent by the various Junior Red Cross Organizations throughout the State to the Illinois School for the Blind. These books came to the students of this school as a Christmas present from the Junior Red Cross members. This is just one of the services that the Juniors extend in all parts of the world. Each Junior Organization sent a letter of greeting with their books.

Six hundred and nineteen students at the Illinois School for the Deaf have enrolled in the Junior Red Cross which is distinctly an educational movement. These boys and girls will have the privilege of corresponding with any one or as many of the schools of the 48 foreign countries as they wish. Interesting correspondence is accomplished through the medium of the portfolio idea, and interesting class work in addition to pictures and art work is embodied in a portfolio. These portfolios are mailed to schools in foreign countries, whose students in turn make a portfolio, which is sent back to this school. Favors and gloom chasers are also made for patients in local hospitals, and for disabled veterans and patients in State and Government hospitals and institutions.

This Junior Red Cross project is recognized by leading educators thruout the world, as one of the finest methods in the newer type of education. It puts purpose behind the work of the school children. It brings out the finer tendencies of service to others. It is hoped that other schools in the community will follow suit in this fine enterprise.

H. H. Myers, of New Berlin, called on friends here yesterday afternoon.

Markham was represented in the city Wednesday by Harry Boddy.

ANNIVERSARY OF CHURCH WILL BE OBSERVED JAN. 7

White Hall, Jan. 2.—Elder J. O. Raines left Monday to go to Gillespie to conduct a revival meeting in the First Baptist church there assisting the regular pastor, Elder Thomas W. Lowe. Before he left he made announcement of the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the Tabernacle Baptist church in White Hall, which will be held in the church on Carlinville street, next Sunday, January 7. Elder Raines submitted the following interesting history of the founding of the church:

"The Tabernacle Baptist church of White Hall, Illinois, was organized by Elders J. O. Raines and Elijah Anthony, on January 7, 1909, as the result of a series of cottage meetings by Elder J. O. Raines in the east part of White Hall. The first of these meetings was at the home of Elder Elijah Anthony, at the corner of Carlinville and Israel streets, where Elder J. O. Raines stood on the north porch and preached to the people who were gathered in the yard.

"The first business meeting of the church after its organization was on January 14, 1909, when the church voted to send letters and messengers to the Sandy Creek association, and asked to be received into that body of Baptists.

"Meetings at first were held in the homes of the members, until a tabernacle was erected on a vacant lot owned by Elder J. O. Raines, located on Israel street in the then new part of the city of White Hall, known as the Willman addition, where the church continued to conduct services until the present building was erected at a cost of two thousand dollars.

"Elder Joseph K. David, Rasheya, Syria, preached in the old tabernacle in 1910 when three conversions were reported, among them Mrs. Roy Anthony who still resides in the community.

Tent Meeting in 1910

"In the fall of 1910 a tent meeting was conducted on the lots where the present church building is located. This meeting was conducted by Elder J. O. Raines. It was under this tent that the sixth annual meeting of the Baptist Missionary convention of Foreign Missionary society supporting missionary workers in Syria, Persia and Galilee. It was at that annual meeting of the Baptist Missionary convention when Mrs. J. K. David first met with us after the death of her husband occurred in Morse, Oklahoma, in January of 1910. Mrs. David on learning of the death of her husband left her home in Rasheya, Syria, and came to White Hall to be present at that meeting.

"The first two names of among the charter members were Elder Elijah Anthony and wife, both of whom are now deceased. There are a few yet living who were both charter members, and a number now living who came into the church, during the first six months of its existence.

"The first pastor of the church was Eder Elijah Anthony who served for a short time. Elder J. O. Raines was elected pastor on May 6, 1909, and served until the present church was erected. Elder Henry Raines was the third pastor and was followed by Elders A. V. Webber, N. M. Antrobus, and Homer Evans, the present incumbent who is now in his sixteenth year as pastor.

"The first clerk was B. L. Mathews. Others who have served as clerks are Frank Meyers, Roy Anthony, Fred Martin, Ernest Long and Ellsworth Marsh, the present clerk.

"The first deacons were William R. Garrison, Robert Walker and Thomas Wallace.

The First Trustees

"The first trustees were William C. Grimes, Ed Smith and E. Anthony, and were elected on March 8, 1909.

"The first treasurer was Mrs. Martha Staples, who was elected on February 10, 1909. Others who have served as treasurer were Tessie Smith Hudson, John Briscoe and C. F. Jones, the present incumbent.

"The first Sunday school superintendent was William R. Garrison, who served only a short time. Others who have filled this office are J. H. Neece, Alfred L. Martin, Elmer Bradshaw and Charles F. Jones, the present incumbent.

"The following preachers have been ordained by the church are Elders Roy Anthony, C. E. Hudson, Leo S. Crosman and Charles H. Hayes.

"The following ordained ministers J. O. Raines, C. E. Hudson, Roy Anthony, Leo Crossman, Charles H. now hold membership in the church, Hayes, and Harley Ford.

"The present church building was dedicated on September 27, 1912, by Elders J. O. Raines, and W. P. Throgmorton. The dedicatory sermon was preached by Elder T. N. Marsh of Alton.

"The church has three times entertained the annual meeting of the Sandy Creek association, in 1917, 1924 and 1933.

"The present board of deacons are John Briscoe, C. F. Jones, B. M. Gilmore, Elmer Bradshaw, Frank Hudson and Oscar Nichols. The present trustees are Elder J. O. Raines, John Briscoe and B. M. Gilmore.

"The church has maintained a regular weekly prayer meeting on Thursday evenings of each week, since its organization, regardless of any outside interests going on in town. Our church has never dismissed a single service.

Twins Have Two Fathers, Court Told

Twins with two fathers—that possibility was recognized in court in the case of Leonard, left, and Erich, 6, shown with their mother, Lena Peddie, when Judge R. B. Tripp, in Yankton, S. D., granted a divorce to Ewald Peddie, giving him custody of Leonard and awarding Erich to the mother. Peddie testified that his wife had confessed infidelity and medical testimony upheld possibility of the split paternity.

AAA PROBLEMS OF SOIL MANAGEMENT UP AT FARM MEET

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 3—Between 1,860,000 and 2,715,000 acres of Illinois land may be contracted to the government as a result of the AAA programs on wheat and on corn and hogs. How best to handle this land, together with other soil and crop management problems in relation to the agricultural adjustment program, are expected to bring a record number of farmers here for the soils and crops short course of the thirty-sixth annual Farm and Home Week, January 15 to 19, at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Farmers of the state have been adjusting their cropping programs for years, as shown by the fact that the acreage of legumes has been steadily increasing and the acreage of wheat and corn has been declining, it was pointed out by Dr. W. L. Burlison, the head of the college agronomy department. However, the AAA program will speed up the rate of adjustment, and the Farm and Home Week program will be designed to help farmers meet the new pace, it was explained.

The soils and crops program, itself, will not get under way until after the annual Illinois Seed Grain and Utility Corn Show has been opened on Monday afternoon, January 15, and farmers have had a chance to inspect the samples and exhibits.

Starting Tuesday morning, January 16, a full day will be given over to a hearing on factors affecting agricultural adjustment. In this connection the different land areas of Illinois, the significance of the soil type, productive levels of Illinois soils and soils and crops adjustments that already have been made by Illinois farmers will be considered.

Making the best use of the contracted acres will be worked out over a two-day period, Wednesday and Thursday. Choosing an adapted legume for the acreage taken out of grain production, special problems on reduced and contracted acreages, efficent use of legumes on the contracted land, starting the legumes, starting pastures on contracted land, controlling weeds on the retired acreage and new crops of value under adjustment conditions are among the subjects scheduled for discussion.

Control of insects and diseases becomes more important than ever under a program of restricted grain acreages, and the Friday morning program will be given over to this problem. Chinch bugs will come in for major consideration because they now threaten to be worse in 1934 than they have ever been in the experience of many Illinois farmers.

JERSEY COURT HOUSE TO BE REDECORATED

Jerseyville, Jan. 2.—The Building and Grounds Committee of the Jersey County Board of Supervisors met at the court house for the purpose of making an application to the Civil Works Administration for the approval of a project calling for the redecorating of the interior of the court house.

Members of the Building and Grounds Committee are William Groppell of Rosedale Township, Cliff Schudel of Richwoods and Martin Fuser of Piasa.

It has been a number of years since the court house was redecorated and if the project is approved the county will furnish the necessary materials for the work of redecoration and the Civil Works Administration will furnish the labor.

The School Boy patrol of the Jerseyville grade school enjoyed an all day outing and hike Saturday, Charles Daniels, assistant principal accompanied the patrol members on the trip. The present patrol is composed of eighteen members of the grade school.

During the holiday season only one prisoner has been incarcerated in the Jersey county jail. Earl Holler of Petersburg has been confined there on a charge of passing a fraudulent check at the Graaf Drug store in Jerseyville.

A marriage license was issued Saturday afternoon to Merville Downing of Jerseyville and Miss Dimple Clay of St. Louis, Mo. They were married by Justice Thatcher at his office in the Democrat building.

HOUND BELIEVED TO BE MAD RUNS AMUCK ON FARMS

Jerseyville, Jan. 2.—An outbreak of rabies occurred in the southwestern part of Jersey county during the week end when a coon hound belonging to Walter Young became rabid and bit several persons and a lot of livestock.

Prior to the week-end incident, a dog answering the description of the Young animal appeared in Jerseyville Friday morning and snapped several people, but whether or not it was the same animal has not been determined though a checkup is being made.

The dog in Jerseyville bit Miss Florence Estes but did not produce an abrasion of the skin. It next bit Mrs. Arch Nelson and broke the flesh. Before it could be found by police who were notified of its presence, the dog disappeared from the city.

The hound belonging to Young was tied up Saturday morning by its owner when he noticed that the animal was acting in a strange manner at times. Saturday evening Young and several friends decided to go coon hunting and the dog was released.

During the evening the hound had a fit and during the seizure attacked Estel Young, jumping upon him but not biting the youth. Walter Young knocked the hound down with a club and the hunting party proceeded on its way.

Fights Dog With Poker

After its fit, the hound left the place where it had been knocked down and ran to the farm home of Lonnie Westfall. The animal crawled under the house and attacked two dogs belonging to Westfall. After the dogs had been fighting for some time, Westfall got out of bed. He took a long poker and started out to quell the fight. The Young dog chased Westfall back into the house. Then the animal resumed its attack on the Westfall dogs. Westfall again returned to drive the strange dog away and was again chased into his residence by the beast.

From the Westfall place the dog next appeared at the farm of George Frazer about eight o'clock Sunday morning. The latter was milking his cows and was walking about in the barn yard with a bucket in his hand. The dog rushed at Frazer and sunk his teeth into the farmer's hand. Frazer released himself from the grasp of the rabid animal with difficulty and ran to a corn crib for safety when the hound continued its assault. Frazer climbed to the top of the crib and the dog raged about the base of the structure eager to attack the man.

The hound finally desisted from its effort to reach Frazer and attacked the livestock in the barn lot. It bit two cows, five brood sows and two calves before leaving.

Tries to Enter House

The dog next appeared at the farm of Estel Fraley. Mr. and Mrs. Fraley were in the yard when they noticed the dog coming. They saw that it was acting in an unusual manner and ran to the house. The screen door had been hooked by the children after their parents had left the house. Fraley jammed his fist through the screen wire and succeeded in unlocking the door, he and his wife getting inside just before the hound sprang against it.

While running about the Fraley barnlot, the dog bit a horse on the leg. It was not known if the other stock escaped. There was another horse and two cows in the lot at the time.

The hound was next observed at the farm of Lloyd Vinson. There it killed several chickens before continuing on its way. The same performance of killing chickens was repeated at the farm of Lynn Dabbs. At the Oscar Dabbs farm, the hound fought with three dogs and killed a cat before leaving the place.

Later in the morning the dog returned to its home. Walter Young observed the actions of the hound as it approached. He got his shotgun and shot the animal as it was starting toward him after it had jumped a paling fence.

Dr. B. M. Brewster of Fieldon called the State Board of Health Sunday afternoon to report the circumstances. The head of the dog was sent to Springfield for analysis. George Frazer will begin the pasteur treatment as soon as it is determined if the animal's head shows a positive reaction relative to negri bodies.

Babe Ruth Claims He Will Play 100 Ball Games For Colonel Ruppert in 1934

By Edward J. Neil

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The mammoth figure of Babe Ruth, the only one of its kind, was dragged from its winter hibernation today for the annual ceremony of taping the waist line, tapping the chest, and general appraisal in the muscle parlors of Artie McGovern.

To sport it's a ceremony jammed full of significance, as meaningful and official a sign of the start of a new sports year as the coming of the first robin is an augury of spring. In the past it has been a tremendously bumptious and happy occasion, with gusty wise cracks, hearty laughter, flexing of biceps, probing of a voluminous stomach, along with questions as to baseball, contracts, and always the one all-absoring query:

"Do you think you can break your old home run record this year, Babe?"

So this time it was a trifle sad.

The only question anyone asked about home run hitting was whether he thought Jimmie Foxx would ever exceed the top man's record of 60. The Babe answered: "he's the only guy with a chance."

The Babe will be 40 years old in five weeks. From every indication the boys were weighing him in for the last time today as an active ball player, as the king of swat, the great, artless fellow who in his 20 years in the major leagues revolutionized the science of clouting for distance.

It was a quiet, business-like, calm Babe Ruth, then, who sat and discussed this final stage of his career.

"I expect I'll take a cut this year when Colonel Jake Ruppert sends out the contracts," he said. "But I won't say anything about that until I get my contract with the rest in February. I hope the colonel will be reasonable."

The theme note of the entire discussion was struck right there. The Babe got $52,000 for playing in 132 games with the Yankees last season, many of them stumbling, halting games in which younger and more energetic fielders were called in relief in the late innings.

"I'm going to play 100 games this season, I'll bet all I've got that I do that."

Occasionally there was a slash of the old Ruth, as when, for instance, he was asked about pitching another game this year as he did last, and he burst forth with: "Hell, no, my arm was so sore I couldn't comb my hair for three weeks."

BLUEBOYS WILL INVADE EUREKA FOR CAGE TILT

Game Moved Ahead to Accommodate Red Devils—Van Meter Plans to Use Same Line-up That Gave Leathernecks Battle.

Illinois College's Blueboys, still seeking their first Little 19 conference victory of the season after three starts, tonight will invade the Eureka college court for a game with the Red Devils. The game was originally scheduled for Friday night, but was moved ahead to Thursday to accommodate Coach Ralph McKenzie.

Athletic Director Van Meter, speaking of the loss the team suffered at the hands of the Leathernecks here Tuesday night, said that the boys haven't been showing the proper amount of mental effort yet. They have been making tactical blunders, costly to the team, he explained, despite the fact that these situations have been gone over many times during the practice sessions.

Practically the same line-up may start against Eureka tonight, the coach said. Norbert Miller and John Bunch probably will be the starting forwards, Lasiter, center, and Capt. Winn and either Pearce or Sarff at guards. Four other players will make the trip, and the squad will return to Jacksonville after the game to rest until Saturday when they take on the high scoring Carthage team.

Hopes for an Illinois victory tonight are better than they have been during the games thus far. Millikin, a team which had to go one overtime period to beat the locals, Tuesday night defeated Eureka 37 to 28.

Uniform Baseball For Major Leagues Will be Picked at Meeting of Magnates Friday

By Paul Mickelson

Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The uniform baseball will be born next Friday at Philadelphia.

On that day the presidents of the two major leagues will meet with John Shibe, baseball manufacturer and secretary-treasurer of the Philadelphia Athletics, to pick out the uniform sphere that promises to add more dynamite to the National League bats. The ball will follow closely the lines of that used last season in the American League.

As President Will Harridge of the American League got ready for the big "birthday party," it was revealed that the International and Pacific Coast Leagues and the American Association all were ready to use the same ball. Most of the other minor leagues will use a cheaper ball, but will attempt to get one as near as possible to the uniform ball specifications.

"Well, the newspapermen are going to lose some material for good stories after Friday," Harridge remarked. "After Friday, we'll all have the same ball in the majors and you fellows can't figure out how much Chuck Klein would hit with an American League ball or what Jimmie Foxx could do with a National League sphere. No figures on batting averages in the majors will tell lies hereafter although the class of pitching in the two leagues may differ from year to year. Adoption of a uniform baseball, I believe with President Heydler of the National League, is one of the greatest forward steps taken in the national game."

Athletic Director Van Meter is getting a bit angry about this whole basketball situation. His team isn't showing the head-work he expected of the bunch of players he has, and officials haven't been any too kind to his two best boys, "Slim Jim" Winn, and "Tootall" Lasiter.

It isn't that Lasiter didn't commit the fouls with which he was charged in the two games he has been fouled out of here, but that officials, both at home and abroad, expect the big fellow to shift for himself, come what may. Last year Lasiter couldn't "take it" very well, but a year's battling has taught him the necessity of "taking it" and liking it.

Because he is too-tall for guarding, opponents have done what almost any smaller person would try to do. They cut him down to their own size by bumping him around, grabbing his arms, bumping his knees, and doing anything to stop him from shooting baskets.

Winn, on the other hand, seldom acquires a foul during a game, and gets a lot of chances for free throws. He is too shifty for close guarding, and doesn't get as many contact fouls called in his favor far out on the court, acquiring most of them on his rapier like thrusts under the basket. Anyone who can stop Winn on one of these thrusts has to foul him, or be the most lucky person in this basketball business.

However, we'd like to see some one protect Lasiter just halfway some evening, and see what he could do. He had only one chance last year, and in that game he covered himself with all sorts of basketball fame. Since then he has been climbed over as much as a ladder at a fire in the fourteenth story. He's so tall that fouls are on the border line most of the time, but they're fouls.

The Blueboys will go up to Eureka tonight for a game with the Red Devils, instead of Friday night as scheduled. Coach McKenzie requested and received a change in dates.

When Coach Ray Hanson was down here the other night he told us that Trinity college, at Hartford, Connecticut, from which President Harold C. Jaquith of Illinois College took his preliminary collegiate degree, had one of the best seasons they have had in recent years. Trinity is coached by Dan Jesse, former shortstop for the Decatur Three I league club.

Knox college drew 4,000 fans to see the Knox-University of Illinois basketball game during the Christmas holidays. It's about time someone began hollering about over-emphasis in basketball.

The East-West Shrine game, played New Years day at San Francisco, brought a gate of about $45,000, according to a report yesterday. The Shriners will get about $5,000 of the amount for their charity fund, so deeply did the expenses of the game cut into the receipts.

Mississippi college, after losing to Illinois College, went to Chicago and defeated Loyola University cagers. They dropped a 35-25 decision to Michigan State, and tonight will play Purdue.

CARROLLTON NOSES OUT ROCKBRIDGE 5

Rockbridge, Jan. 3.—(Special)—Carrollton's tall rangy basketball team, winners of the invitational tournament held at Roodhouse last week, was sorely pressed in eking out a victory from the local team here last night by a score of 29 to 25. The winner's flashy forward, Lemon who starred with the Eldred three-year high school for three seasons was high point man with 12 points. After trailing 14 to 17 at half time, Rockbridge staged a scoring rally and the county was tied 17 to 17 at the end of third period. The fourth quarter was closely contested with the lead alternating several times between the two teams. The Rockbridge reserves won the preliminary game from the Carrollton reserves by a score of 21 to 15.

BELIEVES GOLF WILL PROVIDE UPSETS IN '34

(This is another of a series of stories on 1934 sports prospects written especially for the Associated Press by outstanding leaders.)

By Herbert H. Jaques,
President,
United States Golf Association

Boston, Jan. 3—(AP)—The golf year of 1933 brought its full share of surprises and upsets, many of which will influence the competitive season of 1934.

For example, take the open championship. Johnny Goodman, who won the title so brilliantly, is an amateur. He defeated a great field of seasoned players, and his closest rival, Ralph Guldahl, was a young professional little known nationally at that time. What a battle royal the open will be next summer! The veterans will be out for revenge, the younger stars will be optimistic of their chances and the leading amateurs, including Goodman, will be out to repeal Johnny's great triumph.

I look for an event teeming with interest and excitement from the first to the last round at Merion.

Next, consider the picture we shall see at the amateur championship to be played over the historic old course of the country club at Brooklyn where Francis Ouimet made golf history in 1913. Veterans and youths alike will strive as never before to win that event.

Stirred by the remarkable record of Ouimet in the 1931 amateur, by 55-year-old Michael Scott in last year's British amateur, and by Max Marston's play at Kenwood, the old guard will be on the war path. Just as eager, the younger generation will display its brilliant golf without fear or favor and fight to the last putt to win the 1934 crown now reposing on George Dunlap's head.

Not only do I anticipate a championship that will test skill and nerve to the utmost, but one in which competitive spirit will be rekindled and burn to new heights.

On the golf calendar of 1934 we have many events replete with interest. Our amateurs will go abroad to meet a team of Great Britain that is determined to win its first Walker cup and bolster the morale of British amateur golf. Late in the fall the British and American women leaders will play for the Curtis cup in this county. The strong British team will be out to avenge its 1932 defeat and will later play in our women's national championship.

These events, added to the national championships and the entry of Bob Jones in the Augusta open in March will make 1934 one of the most colorful and exciting competitive seasons we have ever had.

I am strongly of the opinion that in the next ten years we shall see a marked improvement in the play of our woman golfers. Today there are a few who stand head and shoulders above the others. There is a noticeable increase in the serious interest girls under twenty years of age are taking in the game and this is general throughout the country. It will take but a few years to bear fruit and is unmistakable evidence of a higher standard in women's golf.

To the golfers of America I send my cordial best wishes for a Happy and Successful New Year. May the spirit of true sportsmanship bring to them its full reward of satisfaction.

Rangy Ashland Team Burns Up Court to Win 31 to 14; Beardstown Tops Industry

Beardstown, Jan. 3.—(Special)—Beardstown and Ashland advanced to the second round of the annual Beardstown invitational tournament which opened here tonight, Beardstown's second team defeating Industry in the opening game 22 to 14, and Ashland burning up the court with a spectacular basket shooting atttack to defeat Jacksonville high 31 to 14.

Two more games will be played Thursday night when Rushville and Browning meet in the first game, the winner to play Beardstown in the semi-finals Friday night, and Virginia meets Chandlerville for the right to play Ashland in the semi-finals Friday night. The games will begin at 7:30 and 8:30 o'clock.

Too much height spelled defeat for the Jacksonville high lads, Ashland's rangy quintet driving back the tight Crimson defense and then firing over its head in a spectacular second half rally after a tight opening half. The Crimsons coped with the Ashland team during the first half, when Ashland appeared to be checked by the shifting zone defense, but was no match for their height in the final half.

Using Robinson, Milstead and Pearn near the center of the court, and the smaller players under the basket, the Ashland team tossed in 12 points in the third quarter and ten more in the final period to completely swamp the smaller Crimsons. Ashland romped away to a 7-4 lead at the end of the first quarter, but the Crimsons held them to two field goals during the second period, the half ending 9-6 with Ashland in front.

Then Robinson and Gardner went on a shooting spree, looping in points rapidly to send Ashland out in front comfortably. Gardner led the team in scoring with ten points, while Lynn and Robinson each tossed in eight points. The Crimsons failed to tally a single time from the free throw line, and caged seven field goals.

Beardstown kept its speedsters out of the battle against Industry until the last few minutes of the game, using mostly second team players to win a 22-14 decision. Beardstown held a 11-4 advantage at the end of the first half, and not until the close of the game did Industry come within ten points of the hosts.

CHICAGO LIQUOR PLANS TO VOTERS

Chicago, Jan. 3—(AP)—The city council voted today to put various types of liquor control up to a referendum at the April primaries.

Two of its committees were instructed to open hearings to get views of voters.

The councilmen asked the state legislature to follow a "hands off" policy. They declared in another resolution that some of the legislators are attempting to "force liquor legislation on the voters."

The council provided in another resolution for a vote on taking the control of Chicago public utilities away from the Illinois Commerce Commission.

DIGGERS MISS POTATOES

Arcadia, Calif., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Albert Angus, rancher, recently had his potatoes dug. Last week the diggers went home.

Over the week-end there were torrential rains—the most severe in 57 years of weather bureau history. Then the rain stopped.

Angus discovered Jupe Pluvius had dug up 50 bushels of potatoes the diggers missed.

CLOCKS STOP

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—All the clocks at City Hall have stopped.

The new Fusion administration explained that there was a "slip-up" in the awarding of a clock winding contract, but that it would be attended to in a day or two. The city employes a man to wind the clocks on a yearly basis.

GEORGE SMITH IS FLASHY PLAYER

By Joseph E. Nettles

Associated Press Staff Writer

Blacksburg, Va., Jan. 3.—(AP)—There were flashier lads who stole the show and won the favor of the stands but none of them, in the opinion of southern conference coaches and scouts, was the equal of George Smith, Virginia Tech fullback, as an interference man.

In competition with a classy field, Smith gathered enough votes to win a cup donated by William P. Jacobs, well known Clinton, S. C., sports enthusiast, as the loop's best trail breaker, C. P. Miles, southern conference president, announced today.

HOUSING PROJECT

St. Louis, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The federal Emergency Housing Corporation, which commands a $100,000,000 appropriation for slum clearance, is to be asked by the mayor's housing committee to finance a $4,211,240 project in St. Louis.

The plan, made public today, includes construction of two and three story apartments on an 58-acre tract in north St. Louis. Homes for 1,562 families would be provided.

YOUTHS ARRESTED

Oswego, Kansas, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Two youth who gave their names as James Harris, 18, Murphysboro, Ill., and George Ford, 20, Carbondale, Ill., were being held in jail today for federal authorities in connection with the theft of a motor car at Murphysboro. They were arrested at Vinita, Okla., yesterday after the car in which they were riding was wrecked in a collision with another vehicle.

PARTY SPLITS UP

Pasadena, Calif., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Coach Lou Little took his Columbia football team away from the scene of its Rose Bowl triumph today with the words that he hoped the Lions could meet Stanford again sometime soon.

The Columbia party was split up today, visiting friends and making informal tours through southern California.

IOWA FAVORED TO WIN BIG TEN CAGE TITLE WITH VETS

Chicago, Jan. 3—(AP)—Another western conference basketball championship battle will open with five games Saturday night, with indications that the title shared by Northwestern and Ohio State last year, will land elsewhere.

The Buckeyer, who led the race a year ago until their last game in which a defeat by Indiana gave Northwestern a split, started out with good prospects this year, but suffered the loss of ineligibility of Bill Hosket, star center and key-man of their attack.

Northwestern lost Joe Reiff, and Elmer Johnson, who ran one- two in the 1933 individual scoring race, by graduation, and injuries have made necessary so many shifts that the Wildcats have not yet hit their stride.

To date Iowa, with an all-veteran combination, reinforced by Ivan Blackmer, a six-foot, four inch center rates as the favorite, with Wisconsin, Purdue and Illinois, ranked as big threats. Chicago has a fine crop of sophomores who will be eligible for the opening of the title campaign, and Indiana has gone through a seven game pre-season schedule with the loss of only one game.

Michigan again appears to be the puzzle team of the league. The Wolverines won only one game out of five before the title race opened a year ago, but pulled themselves together and finished in a tie for third place. Minnesota looks no stronger than last year when the Gophers wound up in a tie with Chicago for last place.

The co-champions will open away from home this season. Ohio State will make its first bid against Chicago on the Maroons' floor, and Northwestern will be the first to test the favored Iowa team. Minnesota goes to Purdue, Wisconsin plays at Illinois, and Michigan opens at Indiana.

Iowa gave another demonstration last night, walloping South Dakota University, 42 to 32, and will enter the campaign undefeated. Wisconsin sailed through six games without defeat, but stumbled over Marquette's powerful outfit last night, losing by 28 to 26 at Milwaukee. Earlier in the season, however, the Badgers trimmed Marquette, 32 to 30, at Madison.

Four games will clean up the preseason schedule. Tonight Ohio State will entertain Princeton, Missouri will give Illinois its last workout, and Michigan will meet Michigan State Normal. Mississippi will play at Purdue tomorrow night.

PORTER SCORES SECOND TRIPLE

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Earl Porter, one of the brilliant apprentice jockeys developed last year, scored his second triple of the Tropical Park meeting and increased his total number of winners for the new year to eight today.

Following up his feats of Monday and Tuesday when he won three and two races, respectively, Porter brought Mrs. S. H. Fairbanks' Mervin B., a non-winner, home in the second, accounted for the fifth with the red hot favorite, Mrs. T. J. Heller's Agrarian, and took the closing number with the even money choice, J. J. Summer's Musing.

E. R. Bradley's highly regarded broad Meadows accounted for a six-furlong sprint in his first start of the winter season. The seven-year old son of Black Servant, ridden by Don Meade, stepped the three-quarters of a mile in the fast time of 1:11 4-5 to beat Porter's Dream and My Purchase.

The first batch of the season's new two-year olds went on display in the three-furlong initial race and out of the field emerged a fine looking high time colt, named No Saint. Sporting the silks of Mrs. John Hay Whitney, the brown cold led his field from the drop of the flag to win by three lengths in the new track record time of 35 seconds.

In an all-claiming program at Jefferson Park, the six-furlong feature went to Quiet Chat, a son of Chatterton.

Woodson business visitors in the city Wednesday included O. E. Crain.

AL SIMMONS IS NOT WORRYING

Chicago, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Al Simmons, star outfielder and leading hitter of the White Sox, should worry.

Comiskey Park, home of the White Sox, has been remodeled so Al's long distant shots can climb fences easier and he has a two year contract, calling for an estimated salary of $27,500 a season.

Keeping in step with the other White Sox players, Al stepped into Owner J. Louis Comiskey's office the other day and signed up for two years, but the announcement wasn't made until today. His estimated salary is less than he received under a three-year contract received from the Philadelphia Athletics, but Al still ranks second only to Babe Ruth in the American league as the highest paid ball player.

STAR TRACKMEN MEET SATURDAY

By Foster Hailey

Associated Press Sports Writer

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Some of the finest foot racing eastern track fans have seen since Paavo Nurmi and Joie Ray waged their famous duels nine years ago is in prospect for the indoor season opening Saturday with the Knights of Columbus games in Brooklyn.

Five of the finest middle distance runners in the world, lacking only Jack Lovelock of Oxford to make it unanimous, have been entered for one or more of the big meets.

Luigi Beccali, Italy's Olympic champion and world record holder at 1500 meters, heads the list with Glenn Cunningham, Bill Bonthron, Gene Venzke and Glen Dawson mustering their spiked shoes to repeal the Italian invasion.

Beccali has been entered in the Millrose A. A. games in New York Feb. 3, the Boston A. A. games Feb. 10 and the New York Athletic Club meet Feb. 17, and will be faced by one or more of the homebred quartet in each meet.

The dark-haired, slender Italian is unfamiliar with the boards—the United States being the only country where indoor track meets are held—but Nurmi also was new to indoor tracks when he came to the United States in 1925 to smash every record he aimed at.

Venzke's 4:10 indoor mile record appears in danger of erasure from the books. Both Bonthron and Cunningham have been under that figure outdoors while Beccali's world record of 3:49 for 1500 meters, or 1,640 yards, is equivalent to a mile well under 4:10.

ILLINOIS BEATS MISSOURI 31-27

Champaign, Ill., Jan. 3.—(AP)—Field goals by Huddie Hellmich and Jack Beynon in the last three minutes tonight gave Illinois a 31 to 27 basketball victory over the University of Missouri.

The contest was close all the way, with the Illini holding a slight edge until the closing minutes when the Tigers rallied to tie the score at 27-all.

Illinois outscored Missouri, 13 goals to 10, from the field, and had the Tigers been able to work up a better percentage on free throws they might have won. Illinois was successful on five out of eight attempts, while Missouri made only seven out of 14.

FILES DIVORCE SUIT

St. Louis, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Caroline Kennard Paget, member of a socially prominent St. Louis family, filed suit for divorce today from Gerald C. Paget, London, with whom she eloped last October.

The petition charged Paget with striking and slapping his wife. They separated last Sunday, according to the petition.

MANY GOOD JOBS FOR COACHES ARE AWAITING LEADERS

By William Weekes,

Chicago, Jan. 3—(AP)—The business of filling football coaching jobs is going along nicely, but there were at least five first rate positions open today.

In the east, Dartmouth still has to replace Jackson who resigned, and DuQuesne has not yet named a successor to Elmer Layden. Reg Root has not been let out of Yale, but reports persist that there will be someone else preparing the Bulldog for its battles in 1934.

Down south three schools are looking about for new leaders. North Carolinas is after a man to replace Chuck Collins, whose contract was not renewed, and over at Austin, Tex., where the University of Texas is located, almost every prominent coach in the land, whether attached or unattached, has been mentioned as the successor to Clyde Littlefield, resigned. Chet Wynne signed up at the University of Kentucky, so Alabama Poly is in the market.

The situation started to clear up when Layden, member of Knute Rockne's "four horsemen," signed to take charge at Notre Dame as athletic director and head football coach. When Layden went in at South Bend, heartly (Hunk) Anderson and Jesse Harper went out. Anderson celebrated New Year's day by putting his signature on a three-year document at North Carolina State, replacing another former Notre Dame star, John P. (Clipper) Smith. Harper dropped out of intercollegiate athletics to return to his Kansas ranch. Kentucky let Harry Gamage go, and obtained the services of Wynne, also one of the many Notre Dame players in the coaching business.

Mentioned as the leaders for the Dartmouth vacancy are Charles E. (Gus) Dorais, who threw passes to Rockne for Notre Dame, now at the University of Detroit, and Harry Stuhldreher of Villanova, quarterback of the "four horsemen." At DuQuesne, still another former Irish star, Joe Bach, is expected to take Layden's place. The latest report from Yale had Dr. John R. (Jock) Sutherland leaving Pittsburgh to go to New Haven. However, both the doctor and Yale have denied it.

Texas may pick a man tomorrow and has 16 games under consideration including several members of the unemployed branch of the trade. Alabama Poly and North Carolina are doing their searching so quietly that few names have been mentioned in connection with the jobs.

All appears serne in the western conference with the possible exception of Ohio State. Although his record has been good, Sam Willaman has been under fire by the famous "downtown coaches" of Columbus, chiefly for having lost to Michigan too many times.

Just as soon as the present vacancies are filled, five or six more institutions will start hunting, unless currently unemployed gridiron instructors are hired.

LOCAL WOMAN IS GUEST SPEAKER AT WINCHESTER

Mrs. J. Marshall Miller, the district chairman of Law Observance, was the speaker on the guest day program of the Winchester Woman's club, which was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Miss Louis Frost. Many legislative issues were presented in congress in which the women's organizations are particularly interested and Mrs. Miller briefly outlined these bills and explained the measures.

A musical program had been planned by the members of the society and a social hour followed the program. Mrs. C. W. Banes, of Jacksonville, also attended this meeting.

COCHRANE PLANS TO CATCH 125 GAMES

Detroit, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Gordon Cochrane expects to catch 125 games next season, in addition to his duties as manager of the Detroit Tigers.

No additional deals for new players are contemplated.

Returning today to the city of his future baseball endeavors, Cochrane relieved himself of that information.

After a conference with Cochrane, Frank Navin, president of the Detroit club, announced that pitchers and catchers on the Tiger squad will start training March 4 at Lakeland, Fla., with the other players opening the spring campaign a week later.

CCLUMBIA ELEVEN GOES ON REAPING VICTORY REWARDS

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Los Angeles, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The football team that went to bed at 10:30 every night on a long cross-country trek so it might cause the greatest upset in Rose Tournament history—Columbia's thirty—went ahead reaping its reward in acclaim today.

Southern California, which likes its football dished up "well done," continued to praise and entertain Coach Lou Little's team that beat Stanford 7 to 0 New Year's day.

After a luncheon and tour of one of Hollywood's picture plants yesterday, the Lions went Agarian today and planned to tour Southern California's citrus grove sections before turning eastward tonight.

But two of the 30 were missing. They were Owen McDowell, first string end, and Tommy Tomb, second string quarterback, both of whom contributed to victory. They were flying east in the hope of getting to New York in time for the start of the basketball season. McDowell is captain of Columbia's quintet. They left here last night and hoped to span the country in 20 hours.

Joe Richavich, star tackle for the Lions, was wondering if he hadn't found a thorn in the Bowl of Roses. The question arose as to whether he sacrificed a year of eligibility to play in the game against Stanford.

Richavich was ineligible through the regular season of 1933 but regained good scholastic standing in time to make the trip west. He will be eligible next fall; but the question of 1935 will have to be settled when the team gets home.

Coach Lou Little was reluctantly inclined to believe Joe would have only one more year on the basis of the fact that the annual game, while played on the first day of 1934, is technically a part of the 1933 season.

Cliff Montgomery, Lion quarterback, was given a screen test but whether he will be offered a contract remains to be seen.

The eastern aggregation will go to Salt Lake City from here, then to Denver, and on to New York.

WHITE HALL WINS FROM CHAPIN FIVE

White Hall, Jan. 3.—(AP)—White Hall Indees tonight held the Chapin Independents scoreless during the last period and won a basketball game 25 to 15. Chapin led 15-12 at the start of the final period. Neutzman, with 10 points, led the scoring for the victors.

SHARP SPURT IN SWINE MARKET

Chicago, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The hog market spurted sharply in early dealings today largely under the stimulus of an extended program of purchasing by the government for relief purposes. The close was slow with part of the early 5 to 15 cents advance wiped out. The early top was $3.65 with the bulk of good butcher hogs sold at around $3.40 and $3.60 before the decline became effective.

Cattle trade was distinctively on a weight basis; light cattle were again wanted by all interests with steers of such kinds topping at $6.75 and heifers reaching a peak of $6.25. Few heavy steers and long yearlings sold above $5.35 with the bulk from $4.25 upward. Big weights sold at $4.00.

STOCK MARKET FEATURELESS

By John L. Cooley
Associated Press Financial Writer

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Stocks, wheat and cotton flurried downward this afternoon following a placid, featureless morning.

The speculative reaction in stocks, which came while the president was reading his message and while financial news tickers were featuring Governor Lehman's utility recommendations to the New York legislature, lasted barely a quarter of an hour, and much of the ground lost was quickly recovered, the average net loss being approximately a point. Turnover was only 1,390,940 shares.

Wall street's perusal of President Roosevelt's statement to congress tended to confirm previously heard intimations that the executive would stick to a general discussion of affairs.

Some thought the president implied that dollar stabilization was still regarded as impractiacble at this time, leaving open the question of monetary policy.

Utility stocks weakened around the beginning of the fourth hour when the market appeared to have gathered the impression that those issues might become targets for special legislation in this state.

American Telephone, Consolidated Gas of New York and Public Service of New Jersey closed with losses of slightly over a point each. Du Pont, American Can, U. S. Steel, Harvester, Union Carbide, New York Central, Chrysler, General Motors, National Distillers and Bethlehem Steel were off major fractions to approximately 1½ net. U. S. Smelting, National Biscuit, General Electric, Westinghouse, Continental Can and Celanese were fairly steady to somewhat higher by closing time.

CORN AND WHEAT FALL TWO CENTS

By John P. Boughan
Associated Press Market Editor

Chicago, Jan. 3.—(AP)—A quick tumble of 2¼ cents a bushel in the value of wheat today followed receipt of President Roosevelt's message. Corn fell almost 2 cents.

An outburst of selling took place when the fact became evident that the message contained no mention of a specific monetary program.

With earlier gains much more than wiped out, but with something of a rally from the day's bottom, wheat closed nervous ⅜-1⅛ under yesterday's finish, corn 1-1¼ down, oats ⅛-¼ off and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 12 cents.

Grain trading had shown unusual steadiness at the outset despite reports of beneficial moisture in parts of domestic winter wheat territory southwest, where drought has been severe.

Friends of higher prices for wheat were encouraged more or less by talk of likelihood of a seasonal increase of milling demand and of enlarged flour sales. Talk was also current that the full effect of crop shortage had not yet been registered. It was asserted too that pronounced damage to winter wheat had already occurred.

Corn and oats duplicated the action of wheat, declining late notwithstanding a better shipping call here for corn.

Provisions averaged higher, responsive to an increased demand for lard.

Alsey H. S. Notes

School began after the Christmas holidays on January 1. The schedule for semester exams for January 11 and 12 has been announced, and preparation is being made for them. Pupils making an average of A or A- in a subject will be exempt from the exam in that subject.

Cletus O'Donnell, Alsey's basketball captain of '33, made an interesting talk on his work at Campion in Prairie Du Ch'en, Wis., at the Christmas assembly. Ronald McGlasson and Wayne Leitze were the other visitors present. Cletus again visited school on January 1. Other visitors on the 1st were Opal Smith, '33, and Dorothy Northrop, '32.

The members of the faculty spent the Christmas holidays at their respective homes: Mr. and Mrs. Holstine's home at Macomb; Miss Marshall at Vandalia; Mr. Leitze at Manchester; Mrs. Leitze and Mrs. Dovel at Alsey, and Mr. Ward at Glasgow.

Pupils in the Primary who have a perfect attendance record for the month of December are: Betty Lou McGlasson, Lucile Painter, Bessie Lawson, Clara Louise Colvin, Elva Smith, Doris Ingram, Francis Angle, Clifford Cody, Roger Woodall, Neta Coats, Vera Young, Ursula Nash, Bobbie Bradshaw, Robert Lawson, Dean Walk, Colleen Smith, Clara Fry, and Kenneth Coats.

Pupils having a perfect attendance record for the past four months are: Dean Walk, Roger Woodall, Clifford Cody, and Kenneth Coats.

The UNKNOWN BLOND

By Laura Lou BROOKMAN

CHAPTER XLVIII

IT was an odd looking group gathered in Kate Hewlett's kitchen. Mrs. Hewlett, with a white apron tied over her gray flannel bathrobe, moved from the stove to the table, her heelless felt bedroom slippers flopping as she walked.

Juliet France, wrapped in a rose silk negligee, sat near the table. Her eyes scarcely left David Bannister's face. He was still wearing his topcoat and he stood in the doorway, almost filling it.

"You sit down," Juliet said to Mrs. Hewlett, "and let me pour the coffee." She arose, holding a chair forward for the older woman.

Kate Hewlett eased herself into the seat. "All right, Juliet," she said. "The cups are on the shelf behind you. Now then, David, I want you to tell us the straight of this—"

He rested his arms on the table. "I'll go over the whole thing once more," he said. "But this is the last time! I'd like to get a little sleep before it's time to get up again."

"People can sleep any time!" his aunt said tartly. "But they don't catch a murderer every day in the week—and I suppose I should thank the Lord for that! I don't see how anybody could sleep with such excitement going on. To think you solved the murder!"

"Oh, no," Bannister objected. "Not quite that. McNeal and the detectives did the real work. I just played a hunch and Juliet helped—"

The girl turned, "Why, what did I do?" she asked.

"Gave me the idea that finally made Coleman confess. Don't you remember we were talking the other day about where the murderer could have hid the gun? You said something about a window box and that set me thinking. I'd figured out who it was the man in the old photograph looked like—Parker Coleman. The likeness is really quite striking if you forget about the mustache. Of course it couldn't be Coleman so I decided it must be some relative of his.

• • •

"IT seemed queer for King to have a picture of anyone related to Coleman, though. That stumped me for quite a while. Of course I knew both men were in love with Denise Lang. But there was something more than that between them.

"Then when I found out King had been trying to blackmail you" (he looked at Juliet) "it came to me he might have played the game more ways than one. I asked McNeal to check up on Coleman's bank account. We found out he'd been withdrawing large amounts regularly during the last year. Amounts much larger than he'd ever drawn before.

"That fitted in with the blackmail idea but, as for the murder, I hadn't anything at all to go on except my hunch. I couldn't prove Parker Coleman killed Tracy King because he'd been blackmailing him. I couldn't even prove he had blackmailed him.

"I kept thinking about the gun Coleman used—if he had used it—and what he could have done with it. What Juliet had said about a window box kept sticking in my head. It seemed silly but I couldn't forget it. And then when I met Matthew Hollister on the street yesterday the whole thing came to me like a flash.

"I figured if I could convince Coleman we had enough on Hollister to pin the two crimes on him, except for the missing gun, Coleman would supply that. Oh, I gave him every chance! I knew that if I was right about it he'd bring the gun with him when we went to search the apartment and then hide it."

"But why," Juliet France asked, "did Parker Coleman—?"

"Because King had been blackmailing him, just as I had suspected. Coleman wrote out a full confession and signed it. I read it just before I came home. The man in the old wedding picture was Parker Coleman's father. King had the picture and some papers to prove Coleman's father had gone through a bigamous marriage with King's mother. Oh, it was all long ago. I guess it was true all right—or at least Coleman thought it was. King showed him the papers, told him that if he'd come across with the money he wouldn't make trouble. Otherwise he'd go into court to fight for it. Coleman paid to keep him quiet.

"That was all right but when Parker Coleman came back to Tremont two weeks ago and learned that King was going to marry Denise Lang it was too much! He went to see Denise to find out if the engagement was really true. Then he went to find King."

• • •

AGAIN Bannister looked at Juliet. "It must have been a few minutes after you left," he said.

The girl shook her head. "No," she said. "I'll tell you what really happened that night. I went to Tracy King's apartment to get the letters you know about. They weren't letters I'd written. My sister wrote them. Tracy King had threatened to show them to her husband if she didn't pay him $5,000. Helen was nearly wild about it and asked me what she could do.

"I told her I'd get the letters back. I came to Tremont, telephoned to Tracy King, and he came to the hotel to talk to me. I made him think I had the money and he said if I'd come to his apartment that night he'd give the letters to me. I went—but I took a revolver.

"I hadn't been in the apartment more than a few minutes before the telephone rang. Coleman must have been hiding in there. I heard the shot and ran to see what had happened. Tracy King was lying on the floor and there was blood on his face.

"I was so frightened I forgot the letters and everything else. I ran out into the hall and shut the door. Then I went downstairs and out of the hotel. You know," she said, looking at Bannister, "what happened after that."

He nodded. "That's the way it was," he agreed. "In Coleman's confession he said he was hiding in the bedroom when King came home. He hadn't made up his mind exactly what to do when you got there. He was listening to what you were saying when the telephone rang and before he could hide again King appeared in the doorway. Coleman shot him and hid in the clothes closet. He saw you come to the doorway and then turn and leave. He took his time after that, went through King's desk and found the papers about his father. He found those letters signed "Helen", too, and took them with him. Afterward he burned them. He wiped everything he had touched to be sure there were no fingerprints. He was careful about everything—but one person saw him. Melvina Hollister! He may or may not have known it then, but I was fool enough to tell him! I'll always have that on my conscience. I actually asked him to talk to Melvina and see if he could find out whether she knew something that she was keeping from the police. The fear that Melvina had seen him worked on Coleman's mind until he decided he'd have to get her out of the way, too. So he went back and strangled her."

Kate Hewlett had listened silently through it all. Now she shook her head. "My! My!" she said. "I used to see Parker Coleman when he was a little boy! To think anythink like this could happen in Tremont!"

• • •

JULIET raised her cup and then set it down. "Well," she said, "now that it's all settled and the murderer has confessed I guess I'd better be getting back to my parents."

"I'd love to have you stay longer," Kate Hewlett told her.

"That's sweet of you," the girl said, smiling, "but you've been too good to me already. If there's an afternoon train I think I'll take it."

"Well, if you really feel you must I suppose we can't keep you. David will find out about the trains for you. Have another cup of coffee, David?"

He said, "No. I think I'll go upstairs now and turn in."

But he didn't do that. He went into the dining room and lingered, looking out the window.

Presently Juliet appeared. "Oh," she said in a surprised voice. "I thought you'd gone!"

"Come here, Juliet."

She crossed the room, looked up at him wonderingly.

"Why didn't you tell me your sister wrote those letters?"

"I couldn't tell anyone—then."

"I wish I'd known it. I—I've been a fool but I hope you can forgive me. I should have known you couldn't have had anything to do with a cheap crook like Tracy King!"

Warm color came into the girl's cheeks. "Now that you do know it," she said softly, "I'm glad. I wanted you to understand—"

He interrupted harshly. "Juliet, you can't go away so soon!"

"But I'm afraid I'll have to go."

"Not right away," he urged. "I want you to stay. Aunt Kate wants you, too. Everything is going to be so different now, Juliet. Everything—"

"Different?" the girl repeated.

Bannister's eyes held hers. The flush in the girl's cheeks deepened and suddenly his arms were around her. He was holding her close. "Yes," Bannister went on, "everything's going to be different from now on. Everything—except just one. I love you, Juliet. Didn't you know that? Haven't you guessed it? Oh, you're such a darling! I love you and I'll always keep on loving you. For ever and ever! Juliet—?"

It was not a question, and yet it was. The girl raised her head. "For ever and ever?" she whispered.

"If you'll let me!"

Her answer was completely convincing.

GUS LAWSON OF ROODHOUSE IS KILLED BY TRAIN

Alton Brakeman Meets Death While Coupling Cars at Ashland

Ashland, Jan. 3.—Gus Lawson, 50, Chicago & Alton brakeman residing at Roodhouse, met tragic death here this morning while his train was switching in the yards. Lawson was coupling cars when he was run over and badly mangled. He was dead when other members of the crew reached him.

The accident occurred at 8:15 o'clock. So far as is known there were no eye witnesses to the tragedy. Lawson's body was found on the track a short time after the train moved up to couple a car.

The remains were taken to the Alton station, and later to a local funeral establishment. The Cass county coroner was notified, and arranged to hold an inquest.

Lawson had been a brakeman on the Alton for 20 years. He was a lifetime resident of Roodhouse, and a member of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. Surviving are his wife and five children, Ernest of Alton; Velma, Adrian, and Bernard at home; and Mrs. Hazel Feist, of St. Louis, and the following brothers and sisters, L. L. Lawson of White Hall; M. L. Lawson of Peoria; Mrs D. M. Quann, of Rooseville, Virginia: Mrs. W. A. Hunter of Loretta, Nebraska; Mrs. Ida Lemon of Lynnville, and Miss Middie Lawson at home.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Methodist church in Roodhouse, Rev. J. W. Armstrong of Virginia will officiate. He will be assisted by Rev. Milton Wilson. Burial will be in the Fernwood cemetery.

MCCORMICK SALE IS ATTENDED BY SOCIALLY-ELECT

Mrs. Muriel Hubbard Purchases Family Treasures at Auction

New York, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Mink-coated women bid excitedly today for the ornate furniture of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, but Mrs. McCormick's daughter, Muriel, came away with more of the family treasures than any other purchaser.

The second day of the auction of the once fabulous McCormick belongings brought in $32,010, making a total of $55,382 thus far for the sale.

A crowd of the socially-elect and the well-known stormed the auction room, and many could not get in.

In the front row, between her husband and her agent, sat Muriel, now Mrs. Elisha Dyer Hubbard.

She bought all her mother's sheets —elaborate affairs of embroidered and hemstitched linen, 13 feet long, that sold for $57 and $85 a pair.

She paid $675 for three dozen drawn thread linen dinner napkins, $380 for a linen and lace banquet cloth, and $410 for an 18th century Flemish lace table cloth.

A mahogany "boudoir" grand piano cost her $525. She also bought a pair of 16th century Italian polychromed wood panels for $420, four crimson velour "state chairs" for a total of $440, and a gilded and painted china dessert service for $455.

These purchases alone cost her $3,785—and the most valuable of the McCormick belongings are yet to be put on sale.

The names "Rockefeller" and "McCormick" proved a boon to the auctioneers, as the eager crowd bid up some of the furnishings for more than they could be bought today in stores. Well-dressed people jumped at the chance to pay $75 for four lace pillows, $120 for a dozen doilies, and $100 for a mirror.

PWA ANNOUNCES 179 NEW JOBS

Washington, Jan. 3.—(AP)—Allotment of $16,356,465 for construction of 179 non-federal projects was announced tonight by the public works administration.

The latest allocation brought to $723,044,957 the total set aside out of the $3,300,000,000 public works fund for non-federal projects.

The allotments announced tonight, together with some 300 others awaiting final action and to be announced later in the week, will virtually exhaust the $3,300,000,000 fund.

Officials estimated that 76,875 man months of labor would be created by the newest projects and many thousand more man months of employment by the projects to be announced later

They included:

Sangamon counts, Ill.:

The allotment is a grant of $37,000 to aid in the separation of grade on Sangamon avenue, Springfield, from the grade of the tracks of the Alton Railroad Company and the Chicago, and Illinois Midland Railroad Company. No loan was requested.

ELECTION CASE UP TO COMMITTEE

Washington, Jan. 3.—(AP)—The long and anti-long factions in the Louisiana house delegation today passed to an elections committee the question of whether Mrs. Bolivar E. Kemp, Sr., or J. Y. Sanders, Jr., is entitled to the seat from the sixth district of that state.

Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana, who supported Mrs. Kemp in her election, failed to appear on the house floor during the brief debate.

Neither Mrs. Kemp nor Sanders, who attended the opening session of congress, were given the oath of office.

Representative Wilson (D-La), introduced a resolution providing that the case go to the committee. Representative Fernandez (D-La), however, maintained Mrs. Kemp should be allowed to take her oath.

Roodhouse was represented in Jacksonville Wednesday by Russell Riggs.

GRADUATES OF JUNIOR H. S. TO SELECT STUDIES

Registration For High School Work To Begin Monday Afternoon

Registration of between 70 and 80 graduates of the junior high, high school for high school work will begin next Monday, Principal J. C Mutch announced yesterday. The junior high graduates will be required at that time to select the course of study which they will follow during the high school course. The three types of courses offered are college entrance, commercial, and general.

New requirements for college entrance have been issued by the University of Illinois, and all of them must be met in full before students will be admitted to the university. Fifteen units of work in an accredited high school, provided the high school work consists of two majors and two minors, or three majors, selected from English, foreign language, mathematics, science, and social studies.

Registration will begin Monday afternoon after the close of the regular school hours, and continued through Tuesday and Wednesday, at the same hours at which time the registration will be closed.

The new requirements for the university are effective immediately, but students will be permitted to enter until 1935 if they have advanced too far along in their high school work to make a change to the new requirements. The new plan guarantees a better planned high school program, including more advanced work than did the former plan. A major is considered as a three year-course, and a minor as a two year-course.

The new university requirements also permit some choice of minors and majors, except in the more specialized fields such as engineering where mathematics is essential. The requirements also set up a program of ten academic units, well selected as to proper sequence and as to advanced work, and then avoid refusing admission on arbitrary requirements such as were a source of much difficulty under the old requirements, through permitting limited credit for any subject which meets the requirements of the university for accrediting and which the high school counts toward its diploma. Under the new plan provisions have been made to admit students who have shown superior ability in the secondary schools, without adhering to the usual subject requirements. The new plan also will allow local school officials greater latitude in planning courses for students.

Youngest Brother Of Henry Ford In Bankruptcy Court

Detroit, Jan. 3.—(AP)—William Ford, who at one time asserted he did not envy his wealthy brother, Henry Ford, the automobile manufacturer, has filed a petition of bankruptcy.

Listing liabilities of $412,900 and setting forth that he has no assets, not even an automobile, Ford told Referee in Bankruptcy Paul H. King that he had 30 creditors.

Today the Union Guardian Trust company took over the trusteeship of his affairs.

Ford was formerly head of the William Ford Tractor Sales company of suburban Highland Park. Until 1920 he was associated with Henry and Edsel Ford in developing the Fordson tractor.

Ford, who is 63 years old, is the youngest brother of Henry Ford. In appearance he strikingly resembles his elder brother. He has had no business connection with his elder brother for more than ten years.

DR. McCLELLAND TO SPEAK AT QUINCY

Dr. Clarence McClelland, president of MacMurray College, will be the guest speaker at the Community Union meeting to be held in the First Presbyterian church, Quincy, tonight. He will deliver his lecture "Two Types of Tyranny," in which he pays particular attention to the outlook for religion in Germany. Dr. McClelland gathered the material during a tour of the continent last summer.

Havana shoppers in the city Wednesday included Miss Elizabeth Thornley.
